

TAP's Newsletter Update – 6th July 2020

The Power of Gratitude in Schools

TAP is a social thanking platform for anyone to send a message of thanks to any member of staff – it is available to use at the school now. TAP has collected and shared the messages that you have been sending to the relevant member of staff – and bringing smiles to their faces when they read it; thank you also to you for using TAP.

TAP would like share their other news: during COVID19, TAP has opened up their service to make it possible for anyone to send a message of thanks to any key worker, and then post it their website. 999 messages have been collected (as of 6th July); from the Shetland Islands down to Cornwall; and to a wide range of workers: teachers, nurses, bus drivers, Amazon delivery, post office workers, funeral directors, and Captain Tom Moore. TAP has been in the local news with over 20 interviews on radio stations – you might have heard an interview. You can read more messages and see the locations of thanks on this page, including to this school – <https://www.thankandpraise.com/thankingwall>

TAP also want to share the positive news that one of the highest profile individuals in Education, Sir Michael Wilshaw, has agreed to join TAP as an advisor – he agrees with their vision and will be supporting their work with schools through the Power of Gratitude. You can read the press release here: <https://educationbusinessuk.net/news/25062020/sir-michael-wilshaw-joins-tap-education-advisor>

Now we all are going away from lock down, TAP wants to state that they are not going away.

Please do send a messages of thanks to any worker at the school on the TAP platform. All you need to do is send TAP your full name (and place of work if you work at an education or healthcare organisation), via WhatsApp +44 7871 064 296. Then you are ready! You can send a message directly and privately to the unsung hero you want to thank. It takes seconds to do but your words will last a lot longer.
